

World War I Graphic Organizer

Article Analysis Chart

Article Title, Newspaper	Article author or group represented	Is the article: pro-war, anti-war, or does it support another opinion?	List the main point(s) that support the author’s opinion.	Do you agree with the article? Why or why not?
“The Fortune of War,” The Herald and News	Concerned Citizen (editorial writer)	anti-war  OR  pro-neutrality	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The article author states that “there is no such thing as civilized war”</li> <li>2. The author states that the passengers of the Lusitania went knowingly on board a ship that Germany had warned they would target and that the rest of the U.S should not be punished by entering into a war.</li> </ol>	Yes, because rather than advocate for entering into a war and ending peace, they propose to use the prosperity of the nation to support those engaged in the war through relief support to those affected. They suggest an alternative other than just staying out of the war.

Chronicling America: Uncovering a World at War

Article Title, Newspaper	Article author or group represented	Is the article: pro-war, anti-war, or does it support another opinion?	List the main point(s) that support the author's opinion.	Do you agree with the article? Why or why not?